"Our clients who are actors, models, TV personalities, or very outgoing individuals generally request dramatic, bright 'Hollywood' smiles," comments Dr. Pitts. "Professionals, more conservative patients, and our European and Asian clients typically prefer more natural effects. We work in concert with each patient to deliver exactly what they want." Cosmetic Dentistry (AACD). The case studies that Dr. Pitts submitted to the AACD have since been used as examples for future candidates seeking the coveted status. She was also invited to serve on the ACCD's examination committee.

smile designs, smile makeovers, full-mouth reconstructions, non-orthodontic teeth alignment, post-orthodontic enhancements, composite veneers/bondings, implant restorations, and much more. The centre also revises unsatisfactory or failing cosmetic dentistry.

Dr. Pitts's forte is smile design, makeovers, and reconstructions. Her artistic eye is honed to perfection; she helps patients achieve the results they desire.

"Most patients have a personal preference in mind when they arrive," she says. "For example, our clients who are actors, models, TV personalities, or very outgoing individuals generally request dramatic, bright 'Hollywood' smiles. Professionals, more conservative patients, and our European and Asian clients typically prefer more natural effects. We work in concert with each patient to deliver exactly what they want. For those who are not certain, we help guide the decision making. Many people just leave it entirely up to us to design the smile that's right for them." One thing Dr. Pitts's patients have in common after their treatment is the beautiful smile of their dreams.

In addition to cosmetic dentistry, the practice offers a full menu of general dentistry services within the centre's family practice. "It takes a high level of skill and attention to detail to perform cosmetic procedures," says Dr. Pitts. "We apply that same standard to all of our general dentistry services. The entire team is especially trained and takes particular care to be thorough, caring, and gentle."

player. There is a deep respect shown for each patient and for each other. It is instantly apparent that every team member has a genuine love of people and a total commitment to guest satisfaction.

"It is very important that our patients feel comfortable and at ease when they come to our office," says Dr. Pitts. "There is, for example, no 'sign-in sheet.'"

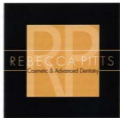

Patients are welcomed by name as they enter the practice and asked to wait in a comfortable, beautifully decorated reception area where they are offered a beverage or snack to enjoy while reading their favorite magazines.

Dr. Pitts is well aware that many people experience fear and anxiety when contemplating or scheduling a dental appointment. She offers many safe options, including sedation, to ensure each patient's dental experience is the best it can be.
